

Pitcher Plants

Kenneth Pobo

My smartphone,
seems silly here
where birds make
the only calls needed.
On the camera, I try to focus on three
pitcher plants,
just out of range. Maybe if I walked to them?

My foot drops through sphagnum moss
into water—a moat
protecting plants
from electronic
giants who interrupt
their morning
bug watch.